

Looking for an account manager to join a highly regarded, fast paced PR & Communications Agency

- Salary between £30-£40k (depending on experience)
- Generous benefits, holiday and pension
- Min 2-3 years media relations experience in an agency
- Apply to jobs@blackstock.co.uk with a CV, covering letter and writing sample

Blackstock Consulting is looking for a talented, well-connected and energetic corporate PR expert to help us continue growing our reputation as London's best informed, and most-respected high growth communications firm. Our clients range from global private equity firms to institutional investors, great estates and FTSE-listed companies, with a heavy focus on the built environment.

Alongside financial, corporate, political and consumer PR, we offer strategic consultancy and an in-house research team known for high-impact reports and thought leadership.

A basic understanding of the property sector, such as the latest policy or industry developments, is a bonus although candidates will ultimately be judged on their track record and proven skills in PR and communications rather than specific sector knowledge.

Key roles and responsibilities:

- Being the account manager or day-to-day lead on client activities;
- Engaging with journalists and digesting relevant media every day;
- Writing press releases, columns and articles;
- Handling clients' social media accounts;
- Being a line manager and having responsibility for others in the team.

Candidates must demonstrate:

- Two or more years working in a PR agency role;
- Excellent written and spoken English as well as a meticulous eye for detail;
- The ability to work to tight media deadlines on a number of simultaneous projects;
- The ability to manage both other team members and clients, responding and delivering to their demands and pressures;
- Commitment, energy, organisation and responsibility.